

soldiers. Last night a girl of twenty, who had been leading a band of workmen in a rush against the soldiers, was shot through the heart when the troops self-defense fired a volley. Today a woman is being mourned as a martyr.

Girl's Body Lies in State.

Her body was carried in state to her home and hundreds of the natives looked to the little cottage to do homage to her body. Incidentally speeches have been made and police are expecting the gravest trouble tomorrow when the girl's remains will be buried.

Prisons Overflowing.

The local prison at Narbonne is already crowded to suffocation with prisoners and today the government buildings were converted into temporary quarters for the scores of leaders now under arrest. Every time an arrest is made the troops are forced to fight their way through mobs which accompany the prisoners, leading those under arrest as martyrs.

One of the most serious features of the situation is the lack of loyalty on the part of the police, none of whom can be trusted to guard duty. Already a number of important prisoners have been allowed to escape while under police guard, and today the government commanders are weakened by having to use a large part of their forces for guard duty.

Bread Riots Threatened.

Conditions bordering on a famine prevail, however, and bread riots are threatened as the result of the closing of the shops by the troops and the difficulty of obtaining provisions. Today a number of troops are under arrest waiting court-martial for having shared their rations with the hungry.

At Montpelier last night troops repeatedly attempted to wreck barricades in the streets. Several times they succeeded, and each time they cleared the streets with bayonet charges. When the soldiers charged they were met with a volley of stones and a number of evolver shots were fired. Many were wounded, but not seriously.

The situation at Montpelier is virtually the same as that at Narbonne, the town being under military rule, and very street heavily patrolled by soldiers.

ame frightened, and requested him to all shore land. The boat was the Henry Eatchler, who had charge of the boat house Tuesday night, remembers hiring the boat to Evans and Miss Ennell. He said if Evans had been rinking he did not notice it. He also enied a report that Evans took three bottles of beer out in the boat with him.

J. Hampton Fithian is prosecutor of the pleas of Cumberland county, of which Bridgeton is the seat. He is also George Hammon, of Bridgeton, a Mr. Fithian's law partner. These two men held a consultation with the coroner, at which the newly discovered violence was discussed.

While there is discussion pointing to the inference, "I do not think it advisable to make an arrest at this time," is nothing to prove. There is no violence, if there was violence, was violence. Whatever violence may have been used, it is certain that was due to suffocation by drowning.

Evans Under Parole.

"I have had a talk with the father of George Evans and he has assured me that he will produce his son at the request. We propose to make a thorough investigation of Miss Vennell's case."

An overwhelming opinion exists among all classes of persons in Bridgeton that Evans ought to be placed under arrest and the demand is general that he be punished.

"Evans," said a prominent citizen, "ought to be in jail. He was with the boat when she sank, and there are enough suspicious circumstances to warrant his being kept in confinement until an official investigation can be held. If he is innocent no harm can be done, and if he is guilty he will not have a chance to get away."

TABLE PROTEST UPHELD BY TWO COMMISSIONERS

Commissioners would seriously consider any proposition that would have an effect. I agree that, as a matter of the present, the proposed stable would improve the appearance of the block containing the site, now chiefly occupied by very poor buildings, some of which are about to be condemned as insanitary.

Will Hurt Property Values.

"But I cannot agree that the better built-up property to the east and south could not be unfavorably affected in value to a serious extent by the erection of this or any other large stable within comparatively short distance.

"Beyond this, I think there is sufficient doubt as to whether there may or may not be a continuance westward of the building of excellent houses, such as are to be found eastward, to make it desirable that the stable should not be placed upon the Bryant street site, lest it might interfere with such westward development. While I appreciate the respect of such development is doubtful, so that the Engineer Commissioner may well regard it as negligible, I cannot take that view. For these two reasons I must vote against his motion.

His full confidence that throughout he has done what he believed the best interests of the District required.

Suggests Municipal Playground.

"If the stable is not to be put upon this site I suggest that the site might be used as a municipal playground by the District to the Playground association, and that the citizens of the vicinity should be asked to contribute to its maintenance as such playground."

Commissioner West said this morning: "The papers in this case have not yet reached me, but as I announced some days ago I shall vote against the location of the stable in Bryant street, I am glad to hear that Commissioner Macfarland has finally decided to agree with me in opposing the establishing of this stable."

PUBLIC BUILDING LIGHTS DECISION IS DELAYED

Secretary Cortelyou will be unable to give a decision as to whether it will be cheaper for the Government to buy electric current for the new municipal building and other Government buildings, or produce it with installed plants, for at least a week or ten days. The electrical engineer of the Treasury is busy collecting data on this subject.

Drayton Separation Surprise of Season In Gotham Society

MRS. H. C. DRAYTON, Who Is Estranged From Her Husband After a Wedded Life of Two and a Half Years.

WIFE GOES TO MOTHER; NO DIVORCE

Uncle Declares Estrangement Is Not Final.

NEW YORK, June 21.—One of the biggest surprises of the season in society is the estrangement of Henry Coleman Drayton, grandson of Mrs. William Astor, and his young wife. She is the daughter of Benjamin Knowler, prominent merchant and a member of a well-known family.

They have been married two and a half years. The wedding was one of the social events of the season. Mrs. Drayton is staying with her mother, who recently sold her fine estate at Scarborough and bought a modest place at Saybrook, Conn. Mrs. Hammersley, whose husband is Judge Hammersley, of Hartford, a sister of Mrs. Knowler, was at Saybrook, and it was suggested that they were holding a family conference.

HAZING AT ANNAPOLIS. SAY CONSTANT RUMORS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 21.—There are persistent rumors here that hazing in some form is being attempted by members of the second class at the Naval Academy, the fourth class men, who have just entered, being the victims. It is also understood that the Academy authorities are investigating, and will act with firmness and even severity if it is found that there is any revival of the practice.

ISIDORE WORMSER ILL. RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

NEW YORK, June 21.—Isidore Wormser, the millionaire father of Mrs. Jefferson Seligman, wife of the noted banker, is critically ill in his home at 835 Fifth avenue, and is not expected to recover. It was said that Mr. Wormser, who is seventy-six years old, had suffered a complete breakdown, and his recovery is doubtful. Four physicians are in constant attendance.

MEN OF AFFAIRS Need Proper Food to Supply the Brain.

A medical journal comments on the restless brain worker of our large cities and refers to the fact that he thinks he knows as much about the needs of the brain, when he is tired and shows brain fog, as a trained practitioner.

He is inclined to spur up the tired organs by some stimulant or perhaps quiet his complaints by some narcotic and this plan goes on until suddenly he collapses, for brain fog is a sure sign that the elements that compose the brain are being more rapidly used up than replaced by the food.

There is really a choice of but two pathways for an active brain worker—a man of affairs—when he shows symptoms of breaking down. Either he must quit work or he must have food that will replace the structure of brain and nervous centers as rapidly as they are used up each day.

Chemical analysis of the particles thrown out through the pores of the body shows that after continued brain work, a large portion of excreta contains phosphate of potash. It is known that when this element is furnished by the food in proper quantities, the system with albumen and from that known as Grape-Nuts, a delicious, ready-cooked and predigested breakfast food.

A definite and well understood gain in brain power and physical strength will set in after Grape-Nuts has been used eight or ten days, and sustained and continued brain work can be carried on if a reliance is placed upon this food of connection with the ordinary food of the day.

TWO BREAK JAIL IN ALEXANDRIA

Horse Thief and Board Bill "Jumper" Force a Window.

WASHINGTON TIMES BUREAU, ALEXANDRIA, VA., JUNE 21.

The inadequacy of the old jail building in this city was exemplified this morning when two prisoners, one confined for "jumping a board bill" and the other being held pending his removal to the penitentiary for horse stealing, broke jail and, scaling the walls, escaped.

Levi Welch, sent to jail by Justice Caton for three months for "beating" his board, and George B. Chous, sentenced to the penitentiary for three years by the corporation court for horse stealing, were confined in a large room at the northeast corner of the jail building. Between 1 and 2 o'clock this morning, Warden Candler was notified by one of the prisoners that the men had escaped from jail.

Upon investigation, it was found that they had broken away a portion of the window frame, and had removed some of the bricks from the wall and had forced the iron bars in this manner from the windows. The work was done with iron taken from the iron bedsteads. Upon reaching the jail yard, the men made ropes of their blankets cut into strips, and by these scaled the walls. When the discovery was made, the men had about a half hour's start. The police were immediately notified of the jail delivery, but had not up to noon today located the jail breakers.

City Sergeant Robert H. Cox this morning offered a reward of $100 for the return of the prisoners.

Fined for Fighting.

In the police court, Justice Harry B. Caton presiding, this morning Esther Johnson and Lizzie Welch, both colored, arrested on the charge of disorderly conduct and fighting, were fined $5 each.

Le Cuyer-Cooke.

Miss Rhoda Blanche Cooke, of this city, and Phillip Martin Le Cuyer, of Washington, were quietly married at the parsonage of St. Mary's Church, by the Rev. H. J. Culler last Wednesday evening. The bride was attended by Miss Helen Moore, while the groom had for his best man his brother, John Le Cuyer.

Harrington-Norris.

Miss Mabel B. Norris, daughter of Mark Norris, and George W. Harrington, both of this city, were married by the Rev. J. R. Sevier at the manse of the Second Presbyterian Church last Wednesday.

Furnished House Bought.

Dr. Thomas B. Cochran has bought from Robert Elliott a furnished residence on the south side of Duke street, between St. Asaph and Pitt streets.

Baseball Tomorrow.

The Alexandria Athletic Association and the Washington Athletic Club will play a game of baseball on the old fair grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Chief Goods at Fair.

Chief of Police Goods is at the Jamestown Exposition, where he went to attend the meeting of the police chiefs of Virginia. During his absence Lieutenant Smith is acting chief.

Father Came Returns.

The Rev. Father R. L. Carne, who has been stationed at Old Point Comfort College for some years past, has returned to Alexandria, his former home, where he will reside the remainder of his life. Father Carne was for many years the principal of St. John's Academy in this city. Many former students of this academy now reside in Washington.

Golf Club's Dance.

The house committee of the Alexandria Golf Club will give a country dance at the club house on Shooter's Hill on Saturday night. This is the first affair of the kind held at the club house.

Carlin Congratulated.

C. C. Carlin, the Democratic nominee for Congress from the Eighth district of Virginia, was busy yesterday receiving congratulations from his friends. Governor Swanson, of Virginia, Commissioner West, of Washington, and many other distinguished personalities sent telegrams of congratulation to Mr. Carlin.

Called by Dead Voices, Walks Out of Window

Aged Woman Plunges to Death With Arms Outstretched to Embrace Loved Ones She Heard in Delirium.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Little Bohemia is sad because one of its quaint old characters has gone to join her loved ones. They called and beckoned to her, and at last she went. But for all their grief those who knew her feel that at last poor Maria Mahachek has found peace and rest.

The woman was past eighty years old, just how far past no one knows. They found her bruised and lifeless body on the pavement in front of 201 East Seventy-first street before dawn.

Killed in Delirium.

She had walked out the fourth-story window while delirious and been instantly killed.

The old woman had one friend who loved her like a son. He was a warm-hearted Irishman, John Mack, whom she had nursed during illness and given a mother's tender care. He saw that she did not want.

Early in the morning Mrs. Mack, who was attending her, was aroused by a voice and heard a raised voice. She hastily arose and got into the room just in time to hear Maria Mahachek say in her delirium: "They're calling me."

Arms Open in Welcome.

Mrs. Mack rushed toward her, but the old woman, with outstretched arms, walked out of the window before she could be reached, and fell to the pavement, four stories below.

A horror-stricken group gathered about the crushed, shapeless object. A policeman came up, brushed them aside, and said there was no need of an ambulance.

MORGUE SELECTED AS SUICIDE SPOT

BALTIMORE, June 21.—Arthur Asendorf, twenty-six, son of a wealthy lumberman, committed suicide during the night in the morgue by turning on the gas. Why he selected this gruesome place is unknown, save that he worked around the lumber industry on the wharf and knew the place well.

While the keeper, Peter Gwynn, slept last night, Asendorf entered the place, secreted himself in a small room, locked the door, placed paper in the cracks, and hanged himself in it. Then he turned on the gas.

When Gwynn awoke, about 7 o'clock, he discovered an odor of gas, and, looking for the leak, discovered the hanged man on the floor. Asendorf's family knew of no reason for the suicide. He was unmarried.

At times Asendorf drank heavily.

Wins Damage Suit; Holds Up Lawyer Who Won for Him

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21.—After his lawyer had received a voucher for $5,000 in settlement of a personal injury suit against the Soo road, Willis E. Grove injected a melodramatic element into the case by holding up his attorney, W. E. Dampier, at the point of a revolver in his office, taking the voucher, and making a "get away."

The attorney had just received the voucher and sent for Grove to come into his private office to talk over some minor claims. Grove came, but presented a gun.

"I'll take that," he said, as he grabbed the voucher.

Grove disappeared before the attorney could get a warrant for his arrest.
